

BOY OF 18 YEARS ENDS LIFE BY CARBON MONOXIDE POISONING; YOUNGER BROTHER DISCOVERS BODY OF CLIFFORD J. LEEDOM

Youth Failed To Return To House Last Night—Body Found in Car in Family Garage—Had Stuffed Overcoat Into Broken Window of The Building

A boy 18 years of age was found dead in his parents' garage here this morning. According to Dr. Charles F. Sampsel, deputy coroner of Bucks county, death was due to carbon-monoxide poisoning.

The victim, Clifford James Leedom, 158 Otter street, son of Fred and Ethel Leedom, was found dead on the front seat of his father's car by his nine-year-old brother, Walter.

According to the information given Chief Linford J. Jones, Bristol police department, the father of the victim returned to his home last midnight, and saw that his son had not yet returned, but made no investigation at that time. When the parents discovered that Clifford had still not returned to his room this morning, they began an investigation, and found the garage locked, and Clifford's overcoat stuffed into a broken window. Walter, brother of the deceased, climbed through another window and found his brother's lifeless body on the front seat of the car. The ignition was still on, but the motor had stopped running.

The parents are unable to give any motive for the action of their son. He was considered a bright and cheerful boy, with no cares or worries.

In addition to the parents, three brothers, Walter, 9, Earl, 6, and Alfred, 23, survive.

Clifford was employed in Straus' Cut Rate Store, Mill street. He had formerly attended Langhorne-Middleton high school, when the family resided in Hulmeville.

Mrs. Leedom, who could give no reason for her son's action, stated that Clifford had borrowed his father's car last evening to go to Trenton, N. J., on an errand. He had returned from Trenton during the early evening, as his mother conversed with him on Mill street at 9.15, at which time he was said to have been quite care-free. The family does not know at what hour he returned home.

ONLY THREE XMAS CLUB CHECKS SENT DISTANCE

Most of $219,247 Distributed By Bristol's Banking Institutions To Remain Here

ONE TO HONOLULU, T. H.

According to officials of Bristol's two banking institutions, the $219,247 which has been distributed this week to holders of Christmas Club cards, the greater portion of that sum was for residents of Bristol and vicinity. Very little of the total was mailed any distance.

The Bristol Trust Company had one check to be mailed to the state of Georgia; and the Farmers National Bank also had one to be sent to that state, also a check to be forwarded to Honolulu, T. H. The check sent to the Hawaiian Islands is for a young man in the service who is now located there; and the checks to Georgia are for families moving to that state during the past year.

Thus it is believed that most of the $219,247 distributed by Bristol Trust Company, and of the $99,247 mailed out by the Farmers National Bank of Bucks County will be spent or invested locally. Many individuals will use it to purchase Christmas gifts, while others will spend it for taxes, etc.

Drunken Drivers Given Jail Terms

DOYLESTOWN, Dec. 2.—Sentences were meted out to six men in Bucks County courts yesterday by Judges Hiram H. Keller and Calvin C. Boyer. William Dolan, Hulmeville, charged with failure to stop his motor vehicle at the scene of an accident, and also charged with drunken driving, pleaded guilty. He was sentenced to pay a fine of $100 and costs; also to serve 20 days in the Bucks county prison. Dolan was involved in an accident near Langhorne.

Lindsay Barnes, a negro of Roselle, N. J., who pleaded guilty to drunken driving, was sentenced to pay a $100 fine and costs, also to serve 15 days in the county prison. He was arrested by private Shovelin, while driving on the Lincoln Highway near South Langhorne. His criminal record was produced in court. Lindsay admitted having been in trouble in New Jersey several times, but had never served any time. On one occasion he was given a suspended sentence it was brought out.

A Bethlehem restaurant proprietor, Julius Beer, pleaded guilty to driving a car after his operator's privilege had been revoked. The fine imposed was $200 and costs. Beer admitted that his license had been suspended in Lehigh County following a drunken driving charge. He also admitted the time limit had about expired, but that he took a chance on driving. He was involved in an accident near Shely.

Frederick Mehl, of Curley Hill, who pleaded guilty before Judge Boyer to a charge of drunken driving, was ordered to pay a fine of $200 and costs of prosecution.

Clarence J. Harrison, Washington Crossing, N. J., who was on trial before Judge Boyer, on a charge of drunken driving, was convicted. He was sentenced to serve not less than 45 days and not more than two years in the county prison, and was also directed to pay the costs of the case.

Pleading guilty to a charge of drunken driving, Edward J. Misunas, of Washington Crossing, N. J., had a prison sentence suspended on condition that he pay a fine of $100 and the costs involved.

The Friends wedding ceremony was used, and the certificate was read by Dr. W. Arthur Roberts. Following the ceremony, Dr. George A. Walton, of George School; and Irving Street, of Atlantic City, N. J., spoke, and a portion of the Friends Discipline concerning marriage was read by Mr. Robert L. Cooke, The Rev. Verwey, of New York, offered prayer. The Committee of Oversight for the wedding consisted of Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Cooke, Mr. and Mrs. H. Griffin Miller and Mrs. William R. Stuckert.

At the close of the service all the guests signed the certificate and about 175 attended a reception at the home of the bride's mother. Guests were present from Altoona, Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, Norristown, New York.

ONE BRISTOL RESIDENT

DOYLESTOWN, Dec. 2.—Two Bucks Countians and one Philadelphia have petitioned for pardons, the said petitions to be heard when the Pennsylvania State Board of Pardons meets here on December 17th.

The Philadelphia is Walter Telenko, who stole tools from the home of Frank Weiss, Riegelsville. He is in the Rockview Penitentiary.

Rogalski, who gave no reason for burning the two barns, but said that "on rainy days my head hurts," was sentenced to serve not less than 10 years nor more than 20 on one bill, and on the other was given the same sentence which was to run consecutively, according to the docket in the office of the Court of Quarter Sessions here.

John Edward Warner, 25, Bath street, Bristol, who was sentenced June 4, 1940, by Judge Calvin S. Boyer to serve not less than three and one-half years nor more than seven in the Eastern State Penitentiary, admitted shooting his wife three times with a revolver on November 12, 1939, in their home in Bristol, following an altercation. He was charged with assault and battery and aggravated assault and battery.

For A "Sweet" Christmas

(By "The Stroller")
This is straight from headquarters! We learned last evening what one Bristol youngster wants for Christmas, for without batting an eye-lash he told his mother, who in turn informed us.
You'd never guess, of course—For it's a skunk.
Yes, a real live one—the type of woods pussy that is black and white in color, and that has such a questionable perfume.
We don't know what Santa will say about carting it around until he reaches Bristol.

Reds Continue Advance

Kuibyshev, Dec. 2.—Red army forces west of recaptured Rostov today were reported continuing their "pursuit of the enemy" on the southern front, while new German assaults against Moscow farther north were claimed to have been beaten back.

These claims were made by the Russian high command as reports from the battle front indicated the Axis forces retreating from Rostov were threatened by encirclement of a Soviet column pushing down from Stalino toward the Sea of Azov.

The newspaper Izvestia reported Soviet Gen. Kharitonov's troops on the southern front were continuing their advance on the Rostov sector.

Britain To Mobilize More Man-Power

London, Dec. 2.—In what he frankly termed a "harder turn of the screw," Prime Minister Churchill today announced gigantic new mobilization of Britain's man and woman-power, increasing the nation's war effectiveness by 4,370,001 persons.

Men from 18½ to 50 henceforth will be liable for military service and the maximum may soon be increased to 61. Boys and girls between 16 and 18 will register for service of various sorts, while the Government will seek authority to conscript all women over 18 if unmarried.

Churchill announced his plans in the form of an official Government resolution which of course must be passed by both Houses of Parliament.

"A crisis in man power and woman power is at hand and will dominate the year 1942," the Prime Minister said.

SANTA ARRIVES IN BRISTOL; THRONGS OF CHILDREN GREET HIM

Cadet Drum and Bugle Corps Escorts Jolly Old Fellow Along Mill Street

BIG CROWD PRESENT

Candy Cane Given Each Tot; Mill Street Business Men Arrange the Visit

Cheered by welcoming cries from the throats of hundreds upon hundreds of girls and boys, Santa Claus arrived in Bristol last evening after a long journey from the North Pole.

Mid shouts from all sides, and preceded by the Cadet Drum and Bugle Corps of the Bracken Post, the jolly old fellow literally staged a "one man parade" on Mill street last night—for he was the only man that counted, apparently.

All eyes were focused upon him—all shouts of glee were directed at him as he tried to claim attention—flood lights showed his jolly smile as he beamed through his long, white beard—the patron saint of childhood waving gay greetings from his perch inside a gigantic red chimney which topped a house-front.

The children came from all wards of Bristol, they came from all districts of Bristol and Bensalem Townships, and many made their way from communities several miles distant—to welcome here the pleasant chap who helps to make Christmas so merry.

Promptly at eight o'clock, as he had promised, Santa was seen turning the corner of Mill and Radcliffe streets on the gay red float arranged especially for the occasion. It was patterned like a brick house, with chimney ample enough to hold Santa, and from this position he waved constantly as he sped this tot and that along the route. So eager were the children in their greetings that many held tight to the float and walked the length of Mill street to Bath and Otter, then retraced their steps with the float to Wood street, where Santa distributed candy canes.

Still others, more sedately, but just as eagerly, followed on the sidewalks. First came the Bristol police department car with a member of the local police force at the wheel, the attendant holding a red flare to help light the way. Next came Santa in his chimney, the house on wheels being covered with snow. Next was the Cadet Corps with the girls of the color guard; and following, although not listed by the sponsoring unit, were scores of youngsters, who added to the length of the parade.

As the float passed beneath the bright colored lights and ropes of laurel which decorate Mill street, many fathers and mothers held children on their shoulders so they might catch a better glimpse of what was taking place. Many others held tight to their elders' hands, or in some instances broke free to get closer to the float.

Upon returning to Mill and Wood streets, Santa took his place in an easy chair on the rear of the float, after a portion of his "house" had been dismantled, and there gave a large candy cane to each child who greeted him. Shouts of glee went up as a portion of the chimney was taken away so that Santa could squeeze through to make his way to the box of candy.

So great was the press of the crowd that police and members of Mill Street Business Men's Association found they had their hands full to cope with the eager throng. Children by the hundreds pushed their way to the improvised stand, there to shake Santa's hands and to receive the prized bit of sweet, more toothsome than any other because of the famed giver.

The visit of Santa, long to be remembered by the younger element here, was arranged through the Mill Street Business Men's Association.

CLARINETS AND THINGS

Announcement that a plastic reed for clarinets has been perfected by technicians of an Indiana musical instrument manufacturer is another indication of changes in American products—and, in fact, the American way of life—being brought about by the war. Cane formerly used for clarinet reeds is raised in France but its importation now is impossible. Spanish cane is available but is inferior.

Silk hosiery and other articles made of silk are still on the market, but few if any silk products will be available to the consumer by spring. Production of substitutes is rapidly being stepped up to fill the gap left by the complete cessation of imports of silk from Japan. Whether use of these substitutes will be abandoned in favor of silk in the future is problematical. The outlook now is that Japan has lost its best customer for silk forever.

In a month all new automobiles leaving the manufacturers' assembly lines will be stripped of all chromium and nickel and aluminum. Substitutes will be employed and if they prove satisfactory and pleasing to the eye as well as less costly, the day of the chromium-laden motor car probably belongs to the past.

White sidewall tires, so much in vogue in recent years, are no longer being manufactured, by government order, because more rubber is required in their construction. Always more costly than black tires, considerations of economy may preclude their return to favor after the war.

Stainless steel and other substitutes have replaced aluminum in the fashioning of cooking utensils now on the market. Perhaps aluminum pots and pans will return to favor later, but not if the substitute materials prove equally functional and more economical to buy.

Plastics are of course coming into their own in a myriad of products, and there is a definite saving in the substitution of plastics for aluminum and other high priced metals. Even wash tubs have been fashioned of plastics. Will the use of plastics, if it proves satisfactory, be abandoned when the emergency is ended? It is hardly likely. The burden of the war debt will be so great that people will continue to buy products made of substitutes if they are at all durable and if the cost is lower as it will be.

TO THE MOON

The knowledge a lot of fun in space for the travel fever 100 years from now. Stories of trips to the moon have heretofore been regarded as the ravings of the imagination. But the great-grandchildren of the present generation may make such trips, according to Dr. Dunsen. After director of the Griffith Astronomical Observatory.

Already a study is being made of a new element known as Uranium 235, upon which the first flight will depend according to the scientists. It is now possible to send objects to the moon. Of course, there is a little matter of cost involved, as well as fuel. If one were to send a rocket to the moon, it would mean a distance of some 232,000 to 253,000 miles, the expense would be somewhere around $100,000,000.

The most comforting thought about prospective trips to the moon is that it will be easy to get back, since the moon's gravitational pull is only one-sixth that of the earth.

Saucy Hot Puddings
By Frances Lee Barton

A HOT pudding certainly fits into the menu when the temperature is getting colder day by day. Serve the pudding with a hot foamy sauce and you really have a dessert for the men folks. There's no doubt about it—they say "second please!" every time.

Chocolate Fruit Pudding
1 cup coarsely chopped candied cherries; 1 cup coarsely chopped candied pineapple; 1 cup coarsely chopped candied orange peel; 1 cup finely cut seedless raisins; 2½ tablespoons rum extract; 2 cups sifted flour; 2 teaspoons double-acting baking powder; ½ teaspoon soda; ¼ teaspoon salt; ¼ cup butter or other shortening; ¼ cup light brown sugar, firmly packed; 1 egg, well beaten; 3 squares unsweetened chocolate, melted; 1 cup milk.

Combine cherries, pineapple, orange peel, raisins, and flour. Let stand in tightly covered jar 24 hours, stirring fruit occasionally to distribute flavoring.

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder, soda, and salt, and sift together three times. Cream butter, add sugar gradually, and cream together thoroughly. Add egg and chocolate, beating until smooth. Add flour, alternately with milk, a small amount at a time, beating well after each addition. Fold in fruit mixture. Turn into 2-quart or two 1-quart molds. Cover tightly and steam 2½ to 3½ hours, depending on size of mold. Serve hot with your favorite sauce.

board to transact, it immediately adjourned.

Previous to the organization meeting of the new board, the old board met in regular session and concluded its affairs. The absentees were Brady and Harding.

Doron Green presided and officiated at the meeting of the old board and concluded his 42 years as a member of the board, 25 of which he served as president.

Charles Weik, of the property committee, reported a change in plans for the building of a musical instrument storage room at the high school, which was approved by the board.

Mr. Weik also called attention to a proposed change in a stairway leading from the stage at the high school. The stairway, about four feet at the top, narrows to about three at the bottom, and thus creates a hazard. It is to be made the same width throughout its entire length.

Mr. Weik reported that the cafeteria had been painted. He also called attention to the lack of an emergency lighting system in the high school building. Plans were proposed for the correction of this defect and approved by the board.

Attention was called to the storage of unused scenery back of the high school stage as being a fire menace. This is to be removed.

Mrs. Horace N. Davis informed the board that she had visited the school buildings at Wood street, Jefferson avenue and also the high school building. She complimented the teachers and children upon their efforts in behalf of the Red Cross.

The board authorized a contribution toward the cost of apparatus being purchased by the Bucks County school authorities to test the sight and hearing of children.

Warren P. Snyder, superintendent of school, called attention to the lack of proper remedial health work in the Bristol schools.

Tuition rates, effective January 1st for non-resident students, were increased from $90 for high school pupils, $30 for pupils in grades one to four; $40 for pupils in grades five and six; and $60 per year for pupils in grades seven and eight to $56.43 per year for pupils in the elementary grades and $101.31 for high school pupils. The rates fixed being based on the cost figures per pupil last year.

The use of the high school auditorium was granted to the Bucks County Council of Defense in which to show moving pictures in connection with educating the public in matters of civilian defense. Anthony Russo was present and asked for the privilege of the building. Only pupils from the seventh grade up will be permitted to attend.

Today's Quiet Moment

(By the Rev. James R. Galley)

Pastor, Bristol Presbyterian Church

Almighty God, we thank Thee for those who have gone before us, to whose untiring efforts we owe so much of our heritage. We thank Thee for their sacrifice and devotion, for the fact that they had not only thought for themselves, but for those who should follow them as well. May we hold the torch they have given us, and preserve for our posterity, as they did for theirs, the freedoms and the liberties, the rights and the privileges, and the opportunities which are ours through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Kervick, Chestnut street, entertained on Thanksgiving Day at a family reunion. Covers were placed for 29.

ON THE SCREENS

GRAND THEATRE

Teamed together for the first time on the screen, Jeanette MacDonald and Gene Raymond play the sweethearts of the immortal "Smilin' Through," also starring Brian Aherne, which is now at the Grand Theatre.

Photographed in technicolor, the world famous love story comes to the screen with a rich musical score by Herbert Stothart as well as an all-star cast including Ian Hunter, Patrick O'Moore, Frances Robinson and little Jackie Horner.

Written by Jane Cowl and Jane Murtit, "Smilin' Through" tells of an immortal love which not even death can kill.

RITZ THEATRE

Anna Neagle scores the musical hit of her career in her latest vehicle, "Sunny," which opened at the Ritz Theatre yesterday.

Superstitions always have their imprints on every picture lot. The cast members of "Pilot X," the sensational thrill-melodrama of the air, which comes today to the Ritz Theatre, are no exception to the prevailing rule. You would never think while watching John Carroll performing all sorts of dare-devil stunts in the high heavens that he knew what fear was.

BRISTOL THEATRE

Few motion pictures of the past several years have managed to combine in such joyous abundance the thrills, romance and excitement to be found in the Bristol Theatre's current drama, "Texas." Fabulously filled with gun-triggering action, "Texas" is a spectacular example of movie-making.

Starring William Holden, Claire Trevor and Glenn Ford, "Texas" is set against the turbulent background of newly-won frontiers and tells of the danger-stalked efforts of brave men and reckless women to win life, love and fortune in a land that knew neither law nor fear.

Thornton Lewis Takes Over His New Duties

nance Department of the United States Army.

No successor has been named as yet. Mr. Lewis has headed the extensive organization for defense in the county since it was inaugurated, and has devoted his time almost exclusively, day and night to the work. The success of the defense efforts, it was pointed out, has been outstanding as has been indicated by the high praise which has been bestowed upon it by the Army and other government officers.

Mr. Lewis pointed out that, as he is to be located in Washington, it will be impossible for him to actively carry on the work.

On a visit to Washington, at the request of Army officials, Mr. Lewis was told his services were wanted because the government wants the aid of trained business executives in order to speed up production, in which department he is now located.

In tendering his resignation, Mr. Lewis said he wished to thank the Commissioners most sincerely for the consideration and courtesy they have at all times shown in connection with the defense work.
